Prisoner escape every five days

One inmate succeeded by swapping his prison blues for smuggled civilian clothes, then clamly drove away with a "visitor" in a well-executed, pre-planned maneuver.

Another had his long-range plans run afoul when he was caught before managing to scale a perimeter fence. Even more surprised was his wife, waiting outside in a getaway car, who instead of rescuing her husband was visited by a deputy disguised as a prisoner. He carried on the ruse for several minutes before arresting her.

Although some escape plans may sound like "Hogan's Heroes" plots, most are simply the acts of desperate men and women trying to escape Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center at any cost.

Prisoners range from hard-core lifers to unsentenced convicts, from one-night drunks to those who have forgotten to pay old traffic tickets.

No psychiatric profiles have been studied formally, but prison officials agree on the two main reasons why inmates take flight from Santa Rita: Personal problems at home, or the fear of going to a worse environment, usually a state prison.

Of the 77 escapes from Santa Rita in 1976, 67 were men and 10 were women. More than 90 per cent have been recaptured and returned to custody at the county jail, even though the year is only three weeks passed.

This means there is more than one prisoner escape every five days.

Escapes seem to occur consistently over the space of a year, although more than half of last year's total took place in the first four months. November was the lone month in which there were no escapes.

"Breaking loose" is not a tough proposition at Santa Rita, as only two eight-foot barbed wire fences separate the majority of inmates from freedom.

A pair of wirecutters is not hard to come by, but most prisoners just throw a blanket over the barbed wire, climb two cyclone fences and hitchhike their way up Interstate 580.

Of the more than 500 persons who have escaped Santa Rita since 1970, only 25 are still at large. Prison officials emphasize this includes escapees from work furlough programs, courts and hospitals.

Only two inmates escaped from Greystone last year, the jail's maximum security facility, which includes the worst offenders in the county jail. This was only 3 per cent of the escape total.

Medium security and the compound area accounted for the most escapes, 32 and 33 respec-

Pleasanton school race

Candidates in search of issues

PLEASANTON — The Pleasanton Joint School District Board of Trustees could be in for its biggest turnover in a decade or more.

That's if the six candidates for three positions open in the March elections can find some concrete issues to discuss aside from collective bargaining.

In the race for the positions presently held by Al Dutchover, board president, Karen Finn and Dennis Reidy are Ronald Ott, Earnestine Schneider, Nancy Hawtrey, James Griffen, Dutchover and Reidy.

Mrs. Finn announced last month she would not seek another term.

Reidy was appointed several months ago to fulfill the unexpired term of Dr. Guy Clark, who moved to a suburb of Albuquerque, New Mexico. He cannot be listed as an incumbent on the ballot.

Of the four "new" candidates, Griffen is perhaps the most inveterate "board watcher."

The four will vie with Dutchover and Reidy to complete an elementary district board that also includes Betty Nostrand and Joe Schwab. The latter two have terms running through March of 1979.

With negotiations over a 1976-77 contract still dragging on, and facing the prospect of fact-finding, candidates may well find themselves belabored by questions on collective bargaining ... or the flip side of the coin, the task of maintaining quality education in the classroom.

Unlike the San Ramon and Murray school districts, no definite candidates nights have been scheduled in the Pleasanton district yet.

This parallels the deliberate speed in which candidates filed for Pleasanton board seats ... only two had filed up until three days before the deadline.

San Ramon has scheduled candidates forums for Feb. 16 and 24, by the League of Women Voters, and Frederiksen School has a candidates night planned for March 1.

Added space 'plus' in church move, remodeling

PLEASANTON — The moving and remodeling of the Community Presbyterian Church would create quite a bit more usable space for the congregation, according to figures released by the church's building committee.

Presbyterians will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday to adopt one of two plans: either moving the church to the congregation's Mirador Drive site, or build a new building on Mirador Drive site.

Putting the old church on Mirador Drive and remodeling it would expand sanctuary seating from the current 212 per service to 300. If chairs are added to aisles and people sit on the stairway, it could be raised to 400 compared to the estimated 280 capacity which overflow seating will handle now.

Social hall office space would be expanded from 680 square feet to 1,080 square feet and the kitchen area from 290 to 514 square feet.

There would be a big improvement in fire safety with six exits from the sanctuary instead of the current three.

The committee report also shows how the congregation can save an estimated $50,000 or so through volunteer labor. A total of 10,125 donated hours of labor would make the difference, including 2,000 hours of finished carpentry, 1,500 hours of rough carpentry, and 1,150 hours of electrical work.

The other alternative has attractive features, too, according to George Helgeson, who presented it to the congregation Monday night.

"The existing church facilities on Neal Street were built over 30 or 40 years," said Helgeson. "There is no reason to say we have to build our expansion all at once. You can build in increments as you can afford it."

Carter names area woman to HEW post

In-coming President Jimmy Carter has named Arabella Martinez, 39, former head of the Valley Community Economic Opportunities Organization, as assistant secretary for human development in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The Bay Area woman, more recently an Oakland social worker, has been a consultant to the Ford Foundation in Washington since 1974. From 1969 until she went east, she was executive director of the Spanish Speaking Unity Council, a downtown Oakland community group.

Earlier, she worked for the Alameda County Welfare Department.

BART director quits

Elmer Cooper, Bay Area Rapid Transit's embattled director, has resigned his office for "business reasons."

Cooper, elected in 1974, sent a letter of resignation this morning to BART General Manager Frank Herring.

In the letter, Cooper said private business has taken him from the Bay Area for ever increasing amounts of time.

He added that he felt he could not devote the time required to be a "well-informed director."

Cooper has been under siege for the manner in which he has reported his expenses, and was under investigation by the grand juries of Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Donors needed

Tree planting campaign near goal

PLEASANTON — Just 33 more "tree sponsors" to go.

That's the box score on the second and final phase of "Trees for Pleasanton" following receipt this week of six checks from localities wishing to be included in this unique community venture. To date over 200 trees have been planted, staked and cultivated along major boulevards throughout the city; another 150 trees arrived this month and are now ready for planting by city crews.

Sponsors, at $15 per tree, have been found for all but 33 of those trees. A permanent "Book of Trees" is being prepared to include the names of those donors, or those being memorialized by the donated tree.

Those wishing to participate are invited to send their contribution (at $15 per tree) along with the names to be recorded, to: Trees for Pleasanton, P.O. Box 607, Pleasanton, 94566.

Most recent contributors to the program were: William and Susan Krupke donating in memory of Bill, Sue, Matt, Nicole Krupke; William and Susan Krupke in memory of Trude Altman;

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eavenson, two trees in memory of Joseph I. Phillips and in memory of the Eavenson Family;

Contributions as also from the Ben Fernandez Family, Viola Garms Kolb and Pete Gerardini.

Contributors earlier in 1976 included Dr. Steven DeCoite for Jonathan Paul DeCoite; from Fred Taylor in memory of Corrine Foreman; and from Cindy and Jon Woodruff in memory of Alan Mead.

He fights to maintain heritage

LIVERMORE — Jack Orr learned to fight on the first day of first grade.

He was five, and it was his first time off the Walker River Paiute reservation in Schurz, Nev.

He was living with his adoptive parents in Hayward. And being greeted with hostility because he was different — an Indian.

Orr is 30 now, too big to pick on anymore although his soft-spoken manner belies his strong build. Yesterday he taught another Indian boy how to fight — not because little William Willie was having problems in school, but because the boy wanted to learn the Indian art of fighting with rawhide shield and wooden spear.

The "fight" took place in the cozy surroundings of the American Indian Center at 577 North Livermore Ave., in a room overflowing with cradle boards, bead work, baskets and books on Native American culture.

Far from being persecuted because of his heritage, Jack is now being paid to pass on to others the remnants of a proud culture that was all but wiped out a few years ago.

He's running the Indian Center, a federally funded project sponsored by the Livermore Unified School District for their 624 Native American students.

Part museum, part classroom, the center already bears the marks of Orr's 10-week tenure there. One wall has a row of carefully lettered, laminated schedules for field trips and crafts classes.

Next to the bookshelves is a carousel Jack made himself from particle board, where children can listen to Indian legends and music on headphones.

Orr is in charge of a $32,000 budget (next year it will be $47,000 or more) to be spent on staff, consultants, rent, utilities, field trips and materials. He answers to a Parent Committee board of directors chaired by Barbara Karr, and is also responsible to Dr. Justin Bardellini, assistant superintendent in the Livermore Unified School District.

Jack brings to his $700-a-month job some 13 years of experience working with various Indian projects. He has studied at Cal State, Hayward, and hopes eventually to earn a doctorate in public administration with a specialty in Native American programs.

He has taught Native American religion at Chabot, Ohlone, Canada, Hayward, UC Berkeley and UC Santa Cruz. But his real talent is for making his native culture a living, exciting reality for those who visit the Center.

"This spring we're going to have a Three Sisters garden out behind the Center," Orr promises, gesturing toward the empty lot on Linden Street.

"Do you know what the Three Sisters are? Corn, squash and beans — the Indian staples. You plant them in the same hole. The beans wrap themselves around the corn stalks; the squash spreads out between the corn."

"We'll use deer horn rakes and Indian shovels and hole diggers, which are like a forked pole."

"Each kid will tend a row of plants."

Orr goes on to explain that Native Americans knew enough about agriculture to have elaborate irrigation systems in some parts of the country and to have developed more than 1,000 different varieties of corn. They originated popcorn and even bred corn with purple, blue and green kernels, from which they made tortillas in colorful hues.

Before you can stop him, Orr is on the subject of potatoes, tomatoes and African peanuts — the Indians developed those, too, as well as 75 per cent of the foods eaten in the world today.

"Modern technology cannot duplicate some of the things the Indians did," he declares, citing herbal medicine and long-lasting dyes as two examples.

In his low-key way, Orr fills out the forms and deals with the bureaucracy involved in running a federal program, but is at his best when planning the next experience to offer "his" kids.

Starting a dance group, traveling to the Hupa reservation in northern California, making costumes — those are some of the plans Orr has for this spring.

"Kids are beginning to have a feeling of being part of something," he says.

"Some of the ones who live around here stop in every single day. One boy just sat here all afternoon listening to the same tape over and over."

"And when they walked in here the first time, some of them didn't even know what an Indian is."

Fact finding called

An attorney from Thousand Oaks has been assigned by the Educational Employment Relations Board (EERB) to ascertain facts of the Pleasanton school district contract impasse.

And the Amador Valley Joint High School District apparently is on the verge of fact-finding also. Superintendent Bruce Newlin said mediator Mike West is prepared to recommend to the EERB that a fact-finder be assigned to the district.

When both administration and teacher negotiating teams agree that fact-finding is warranted, the mediator (also assigned by the EERB) then makes a judgement and either recommends fact-finding or a return to mediation sessions.

Newlin said he met with the teachers president Tom Zach of the Pleasanton district and both sides agreed fact-finding was called for.

The EERB presented Newlin and Zach with a list of five prospective fact-finders.

Neighborly decision for Livermore man

Alameda County Bureau

HAYWARD — Douglas Bauer's request to move and refurbish his late grandfather's house on Rodeo Lane outside Livermore breezed past county zoning administrator Dick Flynn this week after former Alameda County supervisor Robert Hannon, now a private attorney, argued Bauer's case.

Hannon said the house, once characterized by Bauer and Flynn as "the first one built in town," had not been abandoned since the grandfather's death in 1964 as Flynn had suggested.

The land was tied up in probate, Hannon argued, and only reverted to Bauer six years ago. Utility service to the building has been continuous through this month, he added.

Flynn earlier said the house might have been legally abandoned and hence lost its legal status as a "nonconforming use."

Hannon also presented a petition signed by all but one neighbor urging Flynn to let Bauer move and remodel the home.

Bauer, a contractor, said he wants to move the house further back from Rodeo

Lane, and that all improvements will bring the house up to current county building codes.

Neighbors said they want the house occupied, and noted Bauer's willingness to help in maintaining the private road.

The only neighbor not to sign the petition spoke out in favor of the request earlier this month.

Building valuation

'76 statistics triple '75's

LIVERMORE — Construction valuation statistics in this city for 1976 soared three times over the 1975 totals, according to a report issued this week by the building inspection department.

The city issued 1,108 permits in 1976, with a valuation of $18,212,845. The figures for 1975 were 982 permits with a valuation of $6,485,550.

Building Inspector Herb Street said the bulk of the 1976 figure included $5.6 million for construction of schools and $4.6 for new dwellings.

The previous year only $2 million was listed in permits for 49 new dwellings. The 1976 figure was 123 dwellings.

More than $2 million in permit valuations was listed for new commercial structures, including the $1.89 million Parkside Plaza Office Complex, now being constructed at the northeast corner of Holmes Street and Concanon Blvd. by Masud Mehran's Sunset Development Corp. Street attributed the extensive 1976 construction to a greater availability of money this past year.

Permits for December were light, totalling $159,113 for 51 permits.

This included $40,800 for repairs and alterations to non-residential structures; $66,700 for repairs and alterations to residential buildings; and $39,500 for two new non-residential units, including a relocatable classroom building for Valley Memorial Hospitively. This accounts for 83 per cent, with women prisoners totaling 10, or 13 per cent.

Six of last year's escapees had previous escape convictions.

The compound area is the largest single group, including unsentenced and soft-core sentenced criminals.

Most escapees are caught quickly, due to their clothing, lack of money, and no knowledge of the area or its people. Those who make good their flight head for home, local contacts, or just a safe place to hide.

Only eight prisoners who escaped last year remain in hiding. Of those recaptured, 38 were sentenced to additional jail terms, 17 had their cases dismissed, and 14 await trial.

Eleven of those sentenced for escape received additional jail sentences of more than six months; two were given less than that.

Eight prisoners were sent to state prison, four to the California Youth Authority, two were sent for drug treatment to the California Rehabilitation Center, and two were put on probation — no additional sentence. One was sent to a mental institution.

Santa Rita "guests" are told upon their arrival of a possible 10-year state prison sentence if they escape. But each year, a certain proportion of the jail's 1504 inmates take that chance.

Officials list personal problems and the imminent transfer to a worse jail as the main reasons escapees risk their lives and a small portion of their future to run.

But observers say that violent homosexual rapes, increasing racial violence and drug traffic are other factors which might actually force an escape. Overcrowding conditions cited by the Alameda County Grand Jury could also have an overall effect, they feel.

Dow drops plant plans

Dow Chemical Co. said Wednesday it was indefinitely shelving plans to build a $500 million petrochemical plant in Northern California because of government red tape.

The firm spent more than two years and $4 million trying to gain approval from many government agencies, and it was just too expensive, said Dow West Coast general manager Ray Brubaker.

Bill Press, Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s director of planning and research, said Dow's move was "unfortunate" because state agencies would have made a decision in 70 days.

While Brubaker complimented Brown and others for efforts to "streamline California licensing procedures," he said the permit process had proved "so involved and expensive that for the time being, at least, it is impractical to continue with this project."

Environmentalists fought the project proposed in Solano County about 40 miles south of Sacramento.

At state hearings held on the Dow proposal late last year, officials consolidated the permit process in a move by Brown to speed up the decision.

The San Francisco Bay Area Pollution Control District had already rejected a permit application for part of the Dow plant.

But that decision on the plant was being appealed. Dow needed that permit and over 60 others from state, local and federal agencies before it could go ahead with the Solano County plant, which it said would employ 1,000 permanent workers.

A strong coalition of business, labor and legislative interests had pushed the proposal. But environmentalists said the plant would damage the air and water.

Dow officials defended the plant vigorously, saying it would be environmentally clean. They also cited Dow's record in this area, saying it was remarkably excellent.

Brown himself refused to take a position on the proposed plant, saying it would stand or fall on "its own merit."

The Democratic governor also denied that the issue was any kind of "litmus test" of his administration's stand in the battle of environmental versus building interests.

The plant would have involved several new units, much of it across the Sacramento River from an existing Dow plant at Pittsburg. Four pipelines under the river would have carried chemicals between the two Dow sites.

Amaral is a prominent real estate businessman, who was responsible for the construction of the first Pleasanton subdivision off Kottinger Drive. During World War II, John was manager of the Farm Labor Group for the Bay Area, with responsibility for supervising the production of food and fiber for the war effort during the early 1940's.

He was an organizer and first president of Pleasanton's Fiesta del Vino, and also assisted in reorganizing the Alameda County Fair.

His political affiliations include the Pleasanton City Council (1932-36), the Republican Assembly District 13 Committee, and the Republican State Central Committee.

Frank Damerval

He has been the key figure in raising, almost single - handedly, $50,000 from the school board's community fund for lights and other athletic needs, as well as engineering improvements and personally assisting in installation work. Frank also played a major role in raising $20,000 towards acquisition of bleachers for the high school.

In addition to his involvement with Foothill High, Damerval served as a team grounds manager for the Little League, assistant coach in soccer, and as a candidate for the Amador Joint Union High School District.

His contributions in his professional career have been made in the field of engineering with such companies as Aerojet Nuclear Systems, Inc., Idaho Nuclear Corp., Mallinckrodt Chemical, and his present employer, Bechtel, Inc., where he is an assistant project manager.

Harry Miller, Jr.

An insurance adjuster, Jarry Miller Jr., has been a Pleasanton resident since 1968. The focus of his involvement in the community has been youth activities.

He has coached Little League for five years, also serving as vice - president of the league. In addition he has coached Babe Ruth League and PAL basketball.

He distinguished himself as one of the founders of the Ballistic United Soccer Club. From its inception, he has held the office of vice - president of that club. Miller travels regularly with his own soccer team which is known internationally.

Prior to joining the Pleasanton community, Harry was involved in sports throughout the Bay Area. He worked in Babe Ruth baseball, Pop Warner football, served as coach for high school football, and an assistant coach at Cal State Hayward.

In line with his desire to serve youth, Miller has worked with youth at the San Leandro Recreation Department, and the Alameda County Juvenile Hall.

Fear. That's what being a child is about, sometimes. The world out there is so big, so unreasonable, so uncontrollable. And just in case you have your own ideas about how things should be, your parents and teachers and even Big Sister will put you right back in your place.

Manus Pinkwater is a brilliant new author who remembers how it was to be afraid. He has two books just out with two different publishers — Dell and Prentice - Hall — dealing in an upbeat but realistic way with fear.

Children who are just learning how to read are bound to love "Around Fred's Bed." The three - color full - page graphics are a little on the ugly side, but then, so are the monsters who cluster around the bedside of little Fred.

The bloated, leering creatures seem to fill Fred's house as he dashes to that traditional refuge, Mom and Dad's room. "There are no monsters here," say his parents. But when they sit up in bed, a horrified Fred finds that they, too, have turned to sharp - toothed frights.

It's then that we get our first look at little Fred's face; he has been cleverly portrayed with his head under a pillow or his back to the reader all along.

And it turns out that the little fellow in pajamas is also a Halloween - faced "monster," who gladly jumps into bed with his horrible - looking parents and turns out the light.

Prentice - Hall has just published "Around Fred's Bed" at $5.95 for a 7 by 9 - inch, 32 - page hardcover.

"Wingman," published for 95 cents in a Dell Yearling paperback, is for about 8 - to 12 - year - old readers.

It's an exquisitely put together, magical yet cruelly realistic tale of Donald Chen, who goes to rough P.S. 132 in New York City's Washington Heights and hates every minute of it.

The author lives right across the river from New York in Hoboken, N.J. and is dead accurate with his details of the life of a poverty - stricken Chinese family trying to hold each other up in the steely metropolis.

Donald Chen's escape is to climb up on a girder under the George Washington Bridge and read comic books. It's there on his perch above the river that he first glimpses Wingman, a strong and beautiful Chinese man with huge wings who takes Donald on flights over China.

Donald begins to draw fine pictures of his new hero and his art talent is discovered by a new and understanding teacher at school. Donald and his Oriental heritage begin to be appreciated by others as the book ends on a happy note.

Opera company tells plans

The Diablo Light Opera Company has announced plans to present another Sigmund Romberg classic, "The New Moon," this spring with Nico Snel, Jr., of Livermore as conductor and musical director.

The company offered Romberg's "Desert Song" to capacity crowds last spring at the Civic Arts Theatre in Walnut Creek. Rhoda Klitsner will again direct and choreograph the production for Diablo Light Opera.

"The New Moon" is now in rehearsal with a cast of 55, with Don Juhlin and Judy Harris in leading roles. The show opens Friday, March 11, and will play week-ends through April 23.

Free concert puts youth in spotlight

Valley music lovers may look forward to the annual free Young People's Concert coming Sunday, Jan. 30 to California High School in San Ramon and the First Presbyterian Church of Livermore.

The pair of concerts features the young winners of the Livermore - Amador Symphony's concerto contest, Laurie Hamilton and Allison Dibley.

Ms. Hamilton will be the violin soloist with the L-A Symphony in a rendition of Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole." Ms. Dibley will play solo flute in a concertino by Chaminade.

A highlight of the concert will be the "Capriola Suite" of Renaissance court dance arranged for modern instruments and danced to the original choreography by Ron Harris and Anne Witherell.

The one - hour program begins at 3 p.m. at California High School, and at 7:30 p.m. at the Presbyterian Church.

A student of Granada High School, 17-year-old Ms. Hamilton is active with the school's a capella group and chamber singers. She will play with the Oakland Symphony Youth Orchestra Sunday.

Ms. Dibley is only 14 years old, and a student at Livermore High School.

The free concerts are presented as a public service each year by the L-A Symphony Association.

Tickets for the concert can be purchased at the California High main office or at the door on Feb. 3. The program starts at 8 p.m.

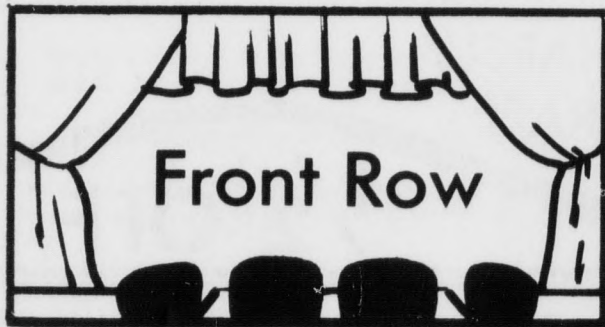

Those who were fortunate enough to see the L.A. Mime Company performance at Amador Valley High last Saturday night are doubtlessly hoping the Chabot Community Services Office schedules more of the same type of theater for the Valley.

The five - member group was very well received. Many parents brought their children and all were rewarded with very professional performances.

Chabot will present "The Other Side of the Mountain," a feature film that gained great critical acclaim, at the college auditorium in Hayward at 2 and 8 p.m. Friday night. Admission is just $1.

Humanities instructor Eugene Marker's "Film as Art" series continues Feb. 2 with the classic "Casablanca."

Also coming up in February are Pat Paulsen and his "lecture on humor" Feb. 4 (8 p.m. Chabot auditorium) and the Newport Jazz Festival All-Stars (Feb. 20 at 8 p.m.).

With the proliferation of teenage jazz-oriented musicians, the college or high school - organized jazz festival has gained greater status.

One of the more renowned ones is the Reno Jazz Festival, scheduled this year March 8-10.

Proceeds from the California Jam Feb. 3 will help finance the appearance of Cal High jazz musicians at that festival.

Alfano also hopes to derive sufficient funds so the senior jazz quartet can cut an "LP," something the group has been aiming for.

Dr. Lamb

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your article stating that none of the vegetable oils contain cholesterol. While the department of agriculture does agree with this, the American Heart Assn. does not.

Their folder "The Way to a Man's Heart" contains these statements: "Saturated animal fats are found in beef, lamb, pork and ham; in butter, cream and whole milk; and in cheeses made from cream and whole milk." Saturated vegetable fats are found in many solid and hydrogenated shortenings; and in coconut oil, cocoa butter and palm oil (used in commercially prepared cookies, pie fillings and non-dairy milk and cream substitutes).

DEAR READER — I have included your letter in my column as an example of the confusion that the public has about cholesterol. The statement by the American Heart Assn. has nothing to do with cholesterol. Look at your folder again and notice you are quoting from the paragraph on saturated fats — not cholesterol.

The problem is that the public at large does not yet realize that saturated fat and cholesterol are not at all the same thing. While plants may contain saturated fat they do not contain cholesterol, and the American Heart Assn. has never said that they do. The statements you quote do not say that either.

Cholesterol is an animal product. Saturated fats are found in both animal and vegetable foods. Too much saturated fat in the diet is believed by many scientists to increase the body's formation of cholesterol. That is why the American Heart Assn.'s pamphlet you cite emphasized that foods contain saturated fat, not because these foods all contain cholesterol.

It is extremely important that the public learn what is meant by cholesterol, saturated fats and polyunsaturated fats. Without this understanding and its application to the food you eat, there is no way you can really profit from the recommendations by the American Heart Assn. or any other group interested in preventing heart attacks, strokes and other complications of fatty-cholesterol deposits in the arteries.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-2, Cholesterol, Triglycerides, Blood Fats, Atherosclerosis, to help you understand these important facts. Others who want this information can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — What are histamines?

DEAR READER — Histamine is a complex chemical manufactured by animal and plant tissues. It contains an amine group of nitrogen and hydrogen the same as the amine group in an amino acid from protein.

Histamine is important in certain circulatory reactions, stimulates the stomach to produce acid digestive juice and is an irritant that causes the symptoms people have during an allergic response. The offending, "allergic agent" enters the body and the body releases histamine from sensitive cells. The histamine release causes symptoms, such as a runny nose, asthma attack or hives. Antihistamines counteract the action of histamines and relieve the symptoms of allergic reactions.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "HOW DO HEARING AIDS WORK?"

ANN FORTON
N. TONAWANDA, NY

MODERN HEARING AIDS WORK MUCH LIKE TINY TELEPHONES. THEY HAVE MICROPHONES TO PICK UP SOUND AND AMPLIFIERS THAT INCREASE THE LOUDNESS IN THE EAR OF THE WEARER.

Perhaps hearing of someone you know is not as good as it once was, and he must now wear a hearing aid.

A hearing aid is a sound amplifier — a device that increases the loudness of sounds in the ear of the wearer.

The earliest hearing aid was the ear trumpet. This was a horn-shaped instrument. Its small end was placed to the ear. It simply gathered in sound and funneled it into the ear.

Today, people who are hard-of-hearing use small electronic hearing aids instead of ear trumpets. They are essentially small battery-powered telephones.

They have a tiny microphone to pick up sounds, an amplifier to make the sounds louder and a button-sized receiver that fits in the ear or behind it.

Modern hearing aids are so small that you hardly notice them. Those with microminiature parts are sometimes built into the bows of eyeglasses. Still others can be worn entirely within the ear.

For Thursday, Jan. 20, 1977

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You have a tendency today to attempt to be all things to all people. This is fraught with danger, for you will hurt rather than help others.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The day is loaded with opportunity. You may not appreciate the advantages that abound, but you'll still come out in the plus column.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Friends and associates will dig your ideas more today if you keep them simple. It's no reflection on your intelligence to do so.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your practical instincts will be overridden today by wishful thinking. Flimsy substance is not the true stuff that successful dreams are made of.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's very simple for you to rationalize today. You're looking for an easy way out. You'll be able to find some answers, but they won't be the right ones.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Look beyond your nose today or you'll miss the big picture. What you can find easily is probably more a mirage than reality.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Beware of being reckless today with your resources when they're coupled with those of another. You'll forgive yourself if there are losses, but the other party won't.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're a good opener today, but a very poor closer. You don't know when to stop selling. This could result in no sale at all.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Verbalizing colorfully comes easily to you today. The only fly in the ointment is your tendency to depart from the facts too readily.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Tips from well-meaning friends should not be taken at face value today. Get the advice of some experts in the field.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be more persistent regarding your goals today. You have been too prone to wither under criticism and this is not wise.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think for yourself today rather than accept as gospel the words of others. It's possible you're giving them credit for being brighter than they are.

Jan. 20, 1977

Some surprising changes are in store for you this year. You'll be exposed to an abundance of opportunity, but you must react quickly.

The unlucky expert had cornered us again. "Look at my nice 16-point notrump!" was his starter. "Now look at my partner's sound 13-point raise to three." We looked and commented. "With everything right you can make six. With everything wrong you can go down. Let's see the hand."

"Here it is. The ten of clubs was opened and I had to go down."

We replied. "Had to go down is a little strong. No one twisted your arm and ordered you to misplay it. Once that ten of clubs was led you had a cinch for your contract."

See if you readers can figure out what our friend should have done. It isn't too tough a play when you see all the cards. Just an unusual play. He simply ducks that 10 of clubs in both hands.

Once that 10 is ducked, South can score the three club tricks he needs for his contract without letting East gain the lead to shoot a spade through the king.

Actually, our friend had been lucky. The way the cards lay a lead of a heart or diamond would have beaten him surely.

The answer is that we pass. Any bid is likely to prove disastrous.

Restaurant is for real

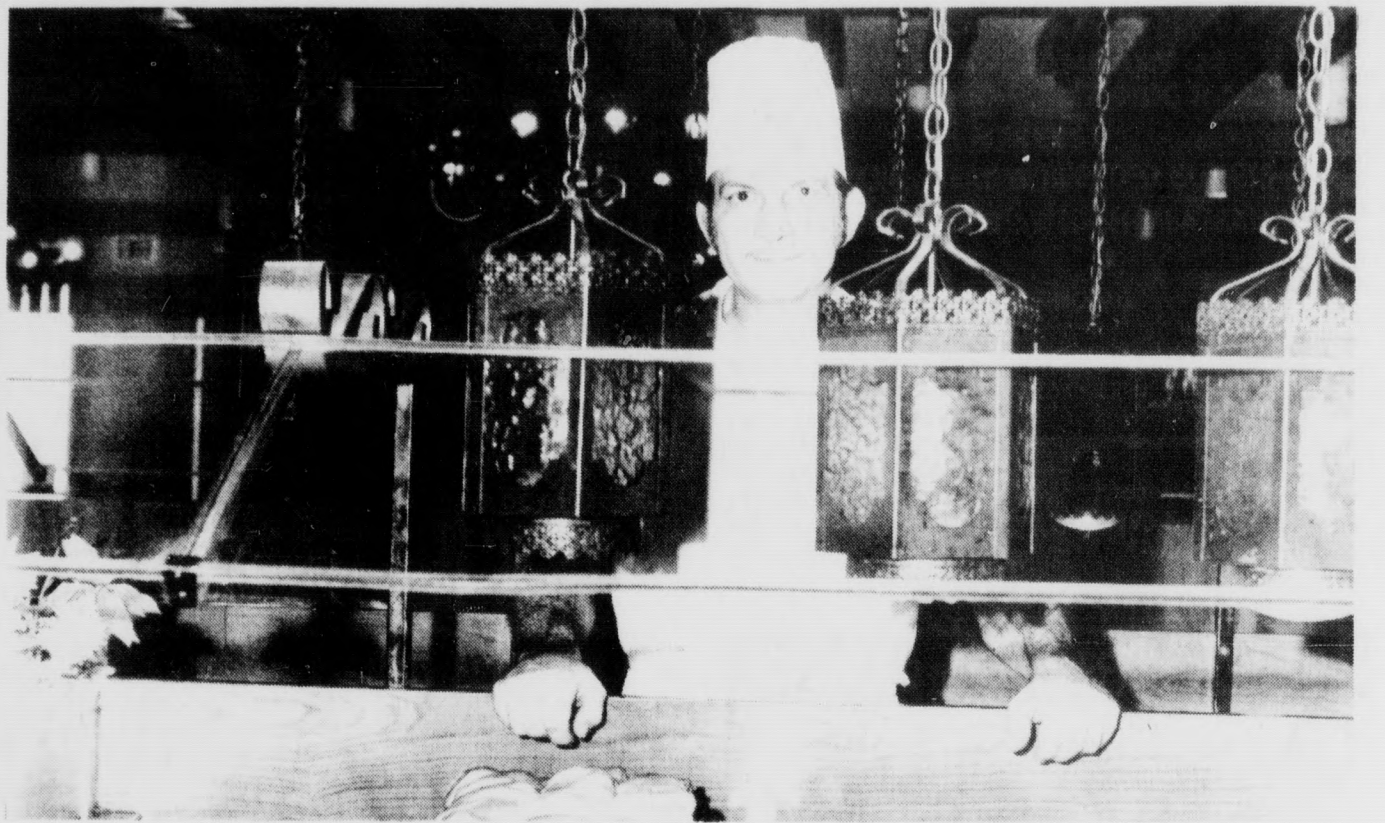

The Sizzler Steak House, located at 3064 Pacific Ave. in Livermore, features dinners and lunches for families. And a good reason for this is the family behind the operation. Herb Slack, new manager, believes in giving a family a break in both price and quality. Pictured above are Herb's family, MoDean, his wife, and the two boys, Orvis and Sidney. Keeping the children in mind, Herb does a great job of presenting a child's plate, with a choice of entrees to please the most reluctant eater in the moppet division. The Sizzler ad appears today, with both the menu and specials offered. Family Day is each Thursday. The Slack family welcomes your family.

Supervisors deny coffee ban

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — County supervisors just couldn't get steamed up over a proposed coffee boycott this week.

A move to ban the brew from their fifth floor suite of offices failed Tuesday. But not until the board agreed to forward an ABC — "Anything But Coffee" — proposal to the State Legislature, and only after they sweetened the air with humor. The call came from the county's Consumers' Affairs Commission, whose request called for a "cold turkey" approach. "We could limit ourselves to one cup a day," offered supervisor Joseph Bort. "That's about my limit anyway."

"I'm a tea drinker, myself," said England born supervisor Valerie Raymond. "Besides, don't the free market rules of supply and demand sort of take care of this thing?" "Now wait a minute," steamed board chairman Charles Santana. "I can see cutting back, but I can't cut it out completely. I'd find it tough to have my chorizo (spicy Mexican sausage) on Saturday mornings without my coffee."

"Tacos and coffee don't go together, anyway," pro-ban supporter John George said sweetly.

"Do I tell you how to eat your hominy and grits?" the Chicano retorted humorously to the black supervisor.

DUSL tourney threatened

By Sue Vogelsanger

The Dublin United Soccer League (DUSL) has asked the Valley Community Services District (VCSD) board of directors to revise the construction schedule of little league ballfields at Dublin Sports Grounds.

Kenneth D. Lame, DUSL league match secretary, told VCSD directors Tuesday night the construction project would put a halt to the DUSL Shamrock Invitational Soccer Tournament.

According to Lame, DUSL requested use of five Dublin Sports Grounds soccer fields last November.

"VCSD recreation director, Brian May, approved the request and set up field use schedules," Lame said. "It was his understanding the VCSD board had acknowledged his decision and had given their approval. Apparently this is not the case. Evidently, there has been a misunderstanding due to a communication gap between the VCSD board and May. If VCSD continues with their construction schedule we cannot have our tournament. It would be impossible to play soccer with all of that equipment in the way."

Lame asked the board to hold up their construction schedule until after April 25 or later. The tournament dates are set for April 23 and 24.

"It would be extremely awkward to have to notify the various soccer leagues we have invited that there will be no tournament," Lame said. "This is the first time in 11 years we have been in a position to host such a tournament. We have invited 32 teams."

Lila Euler, VCSD director, pointed out the original plans for Dublin Sports Grounds did not include soccer fields. She said the baseball fields were included from the beginning and were being constructed as scheduled.

"I'm afraid the soccer league is caught in a stage of development," Euler said.

Chuck Ladner, VCSD president, suggested the soccer league play elimination games at other fields.

"Then play off your final games at the regulation fields that will be available at Dublin Sports Grounds even with construction going on," Ladner said.

Lame asked why construction couldn't be switched to Athan Downs and leave Dublin Sports Grounds alone until after the tournament.

Ladner pointed out that VCSD has not yet accepted any construction projects for Athan Downs.

Euler suggested the matter be tabled temporarily until the VCSD staff had time to work out a solution satisfactory to everyone concerned. This idea met with approval.

Lame submitted a petition with 379 names from interested citizens asking VCSD to reconsider the complete soccer issue.

Back, I say, back

Jamaal Wilkes' good, swift, ball-protecting kick keeps the Denver Nuggets Paul Silas (left) and Jim Price (15) at bay in Tuesday night's six-point Warrior win over the NBA's top mid-season club. Golden State entertains the struggling Phoenix Suns tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Coliseum Arena. Last year's Western Conference champs, the Suns are in last place in the Pacific Division so far and lost to the Warriors in the only meeting of the teams so far back in November.

Crosby tourney

Palmer, Ford team in Pro-Am

Associated Press

PEBBLE BEACH — Arnold Palmer is excited. Jack Nicklaus is determined. And Johnny Miller is just a little uncertain.

Palmer will have Gerald Ford, in his first day as an ex-president of the United States, as his amateur partner in the $200,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf Tournament that gets under way today on three courses on the Monterey Peninsula. President Ford will attend the inauguration of Jimmy Carter and miss the first round but will compete with an 18 handicap for at least the next two days.

"I'm excited about it," the 47-year-old Palmer said of the prospect. "I think it's a great thing he's doing for golf. I'm looking forward to it."

Nicklaus, one day short of his 37th birthday, as usual begins his season with his sights set rock-steady on the game's Big Four championships.

"I don't consider any season a really good one if I don't win one of the Big Four," Nicklaus said. "I didn't win last year, so, from that respect, it wasn't a great year. In many respects, however, it was a good year."

"Winning one of the majors would make this a better year."

He won two American titles last season, took a fifth Australian Open, led in money-winings and stroke average and was named Player of the Year.

Miller is a little concerned. The young man who has made a habit of blitzing the Arizona tournaments took only $680 out of two events in that state earlier this month and never really got in contention. He withdrew from the final round of the Tucson Open last week, complaining of a cold, and didn't check into the Crosby until Wednesday.

"Mostly it's my putting," said Miller, the current

British Open title-holder. "If I'm not putting well, it goes right through the rest of my game. A lot will depend on the kind of start I get, the kind of first round I can shoot."

Under the unique format for this old event, the 168 pros play one round each over three courses, each day in the company of an amateur partner. Two sets of scores are kept — the pro's individual score and a team score based on the better ball of each two-man team. The latter includes the amateur's handicap. At the end of 54 holes the field is cut to the low 60 individual pros and the low 30 teams.

Since President Ford will be unable to play in the first round, Palmer's score will count as the team score.

Some other major entries include defending champion Ben Crenshaw, PGA champ Dave Stockton, Masters king Ray Floyd and U.S. Open champ Jerry Pate, who won this year's first event at Phoenix.

Others include Hubert Green, Hale Irwin, Tom Watson, Australian David Graham, Tom Weiskopf, Dave Hill.

Portions of the final two rounds Saturday and Sunday will be televised nationally by ABC-TV.

Dayak scorches the nets

Chris Dayak swished the nets for 25 points to lead Carpet & Colors past Livermore Church of Nazarene 66-34 in a Tri-Cities basketball game Monday.

Dayak hit 10 field goals and was a perfect five of five from the free throw line. Scott Douglas added 14 points and Tim Schlerhit 13. Dick Vanschuer led the losers with nine.

The winners jumped off to a 26-10 first half lead and were never in trouble.

Dry Heaves used a balanced attack to roll past Round Table Pizza 49-33.

John Laney, Dan Duke and Jerry Dow each had 11 points for the victors. Wayne Meicer paced the losers with 11. Larry Carpenter added eight markers.

Cheese Factory poured in 44 points in the second half in taking 74-58 win over Soup Kitchen.

Again, balance was the key as Cheese Factory had five players in double figures. Jerry Tassell led the way with 19 points, followed by Dan Lufkin with 17. Dick Smith with 16 and Don Clemetson and Ed Correll, each with 10.

Eric Davidson was a hot hand for the losers, tanking 24 points. Dave Heck and John Pescio added 13 and 12 points, respectively.

The Celtics played tough defense in topping Kodak, 48-16.

Willie Wise

Off battered or benched

By Dave Weber

OAKLAND — There must have been a better time and place to talk to Willie Wise than 10 p.m. Tuesday night at the Coliseum Arena.

His Denver Nuggets had dropped a hard- to stomach 107-101 National Basketball Association contest to the Golden State Warriors, teammate Jim Price had mistakenly made off with his hair brush, conditioner and 'fro comb and to ice the bitter cake, Wise had been injured — again.

But Willie, who gained local notoriety when he ditched a $100,000 per year contract with the Utah Stars in favor of a brief stint with the ill-fated Tri-Valley Warriors of the Western Basketball Association, stayed admirably cool.

"Somebody caught me with a fingernail on a fast break," explained Wise while fingering fresh stitches taken moments earlier by Warrior team physician Robert Albo to stem the bleeding from inside his left eyelid.

A mere drop in the bucket. Wise has always been nagged by bad knees as the result of childhood hi-jinks in his native San Francisco, but this season a new culprit is cramping his style — a pulled groin muscle.

"I've had to modify my whole game," lamented the 6-6 forward. "I've learned to get to the open spot since I can't go to the hoop as hard as I used to."

That was apparent Tuesday as Wise used the threat of shooting almost as effectively as he once used his jumper and effortless drives. Playing before his friends and neighbors for the first time in a regular season game, Willie set picks, worked give-and-goes, filled a lane on fast breaks and moved as well as he could without the ball.

The result was two baskets and four assists in 18 minutes. It was the 18 minutes that gripped Wise. Although he's started most of Denver's 42 games, Willie has averaged barely 19 minutes per game.

"I don't know why I haven't been staying in longer — what did he say?" Wise asked, gesturing in the direction of Nugget coach Larry Brown. Brown, being chased for the Midwest Division lead by his brother Herb's Detroit Pistons, said, "He's gotten into a lot of foul trouble. But I think Willie's coming and he should be all the way back soon."

The foul trouble amounts to less than three personals per game, so Wise admits, "It bothers me a little that he takes me out so quick; I still like to play the game."

With Byron Beck and Paul Silas available for muscle off the bench, one might presume that Brown would use Willie in offensive situations and Silas or Beck when Denver needed to get physical or grab more than its share of rebounds.

Larry claims he makes no such distinction. "Everybody on our team plays the whole game, we don't like to think in terms of 'roles,'" he explained. Still, Wise is apparently unhappy with his.

But nothing like the stormy 1974-75 season when he went from Salt Lake City to Pleasanton and then to Norfolk. Wise shocked most basketball observers when he jumped the Stars only to wind up in the dank Alameda County Fairgrounds Exhibition Hall playing for pennies.

"They had an organization that I didn't care to play for," Wise, who refused to comment on the subject two years ago, began, adding of the racial "unworthiness" of the black man espoused by Utah's only home-grown religion, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, "The society was different than I was used to and such that I didn't want to live there."

Compounding the misunderstanding, Wise had been misquoted in a national magazine as saying he was fond of the Salt Lake area.

He didn't mind the valley and was eager to play for Warrior coach John Phillips, a friend since high school. And the thought of moving to the local team's loosely-affiliated "parent club" in Oakland, which had drafted him fifth in 1969, must have been on his mind.

"The thing I remember most is John being the coach and playing in the league with guys I'd known in junior college," said Wise, who attended City College of San Francisco with O.J. Simpson and WBA scoring star Gary Bradford.

For awhile, Wise said, it was fun and he didn't think his skills would, as he later put it, tarnish. Then he discovered what everyone else in the league knew — the officials stunk.

"I finally left because of the style of play," he said Tuesday. "The refs were allowing people to beat me up — and later the Stars got an injunction."

Right now an injunction might look better to Willie Wise than another of those nasty medical insurance forms.

Bank lists student aid sources

"The federal government is one of the largest sources of financial aid," a report released Wednesday by Bank of America contends.

Each year the government allocates funds to postsecondary schools, which, in turn, disburse these funds to as many eligible students as possible, the report adds.

"Ways to Finance an Education," the bank's latest consumer information report, looks at 21 sources of scholarships, grants, and loans to help finance college education.

The report notes that basic educational opportunity grants, for instance, pay $400 to $1,400 a year. Other grants pay even more to students who can not afford to attend college without aid.

Under a federal program combining work and study, colleges arrange for jobs which must be with non-profit organizations. The job may be in a field such as health, education or recreation, on campus helping a professor conduct research, waiting on tables in the dining hall, or cleaning lab equipment. The student receives at least the minimum wage and can work up to 40 hours a week, depending on needs and academic progress.

State governments are important sources of aid, the report states. In California, for example, a wide range of scholarships and grants for both undergraduates and graduates may be arranged through the Study Aid Commission. Schools also offer their own scholarships, fellowships, grants and loans, funded by their own budgets or by private donors.

Some schools, the report says, will allow students to delay tuition payments, either by paying in monthly installments or by paying part at the beginning of the term and the rest when the term ends. Some schools will defer payments till after graduation.

The report includes a timetable to help students plan for financial assistance. The Consumer Information Report, "Ways to Finance an Education," is available at all bank branches.

Murray redistricting Principals to switch

The Murray School District Board of Trustees is in the midst of the selection process for an architect to draw up plans for conversion of Frederiksen School to a seventh - eighth grade facility.

With redistricting approved, the board now intends on hiring an architect to map the structural changes that will be needed to change the presently kindergarten through sixth grade school on Tamarack Drive in Dublin.

Under "Plan A" adopted

Monday night, Frederiksen would house a projected 603 students—111 from the Dublin attendance area, 221 from Fallon, 127 from Murray and 144 from Nielsen.

According to projections by Wally Moreskine, acting assistant superintendent, the seventh - eighth grade enrollment at Frederiksen would drop from 603 to 543 in 1978-79 and to 515 in 1979-80.

Almost all of the present K-5 students at the school would attend Fallon next fall.

Wells Intermediate on Penn Drive would have a projected 618 students from Cronin, Donlon, and Lydiken attendance areas.

Redistricting and conversion have prompted several principal transfers, effective July 1.

Ellen Nelson, now at Frederiksen, will become principal at Fallon (where most of the current Frederiksen K-5 students will go); Dublin's Bill Conley will switch to Frederiksen and be joined by vice principal Roy Fields, now at Donlon School, and Bo Isaeff, now principal at Fallon, will take Conley's place at Dublin. The latter, Donlon and Fallon will all be K-6 schools starting in September.

Fields' move in July will leave Donlon with two administrators, principal Mark Stott and vice principal Frank Stager.

Acting Superintendent Heinz Gewing also announced that the Murray school board will hold a closed personnel session Monday, Jan. 24 at 8 p.m. to interview consultant prospects to lead the search for a new superintendent to replace Dr. Donald Williams.

The board intends on hiring one, at a fee yet to be determined, with that person directing the recruiting process. The board has expressed hope of having a new superintendent on the job by July 1.

County grants extension for sentry dog operation

Alameda County Bureau

HAYWARD — Sentry Dogs Inc. owner Bill Schilp has another six weeks to meet county zoning requirements for his 25-dog kennel off Foothill Road.

County zoning administrator Dick Flynn this week accepted Schilp's efforts to date, and gave him until March 1 to meet the balance of the requirements.

Schilp has built a perimeter fence to contain his dogs, currently held in a barn, and has completed a satisfactory percolation test for a septic tank.

Schilp told Flynn four contractors currently are drawing up plans for a septic tank system. Those plans will be funneled through the county health department after Schilp decides on a contractor.

Schilp, battling Flynn since last fall, was foiled earlier when fence construction took an extra two weeks and again this month when neighboring cows broke through an old fence and crushed water pipes on the 60-acre site.

He has until March 1, "with a couple of days margin for error," said Flynn, to install septic tank and dog runs.

Pre-schoolers welcome

LIVERMORE — There are still openings in the unique classes offered by Livermore Area Recreation and Park District to acquaint pre-schoolers aged 3½ to 5 years with the natural world.

The children can explore and learn about local plants, animals, stream and pond life together with their mothers and fathers in the class led by naturalist Alice Tetlow.

The classes will be through March 8, with a field trip scheduled for Feb. 15. The class runs from 1 p.m. to 2:15 p.m. at Little House, 85 Trevarno Road and costs $16.

Guide dog film slated

A film on Guide Dogs for the Blind will be shown at Valley View School, 480 Adams Ct. in Pleasanton Thursday, Jan. 20 at 7 p.m. in the multi-purpose room. Marie Clark, a 4-H member, will explain how she trains her puppy, who will go on to extensive guide dog training in San Rafael.

Merit Technology Applied To 100mm Cigarette.

'Enriched Flavor' process adapted to new low tar 100mm cigarette with remarkable success.

MERIT established a whole new taste standard for low tar smoking.

If you smoke but haven't chosen to take advantage of the MERIT breakthrough because you prefer a longer length cigarette, you'll be interested.

Because now there's a MERIT for you, too. New MERIT 100's. Only 12 mg. of tar. Yet packed with extra flavor. The kind of flavor that makes "low tar, good taste" a reality for 100's smokers.

'Enriched Flavor' Tobacco

Like MERIT, MERIT 100's are packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke, and proven to deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

We taste-tested MERIT 100's against some of the toughest competition we could find: higher tar 100mm cigarettes.

Here are the results.

Test Data Conclusive

New 12 mg. tar MERIT 100's were taste-tested against a number of major 100mm brands ranging from 17 mg. to 19 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested.* The results: overall, they liked the taste of MERIT 100's as much as the higher tar 100mm brands tested.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL. King Size and new 100's.

The taste barrier for low tar smoking has been broken again.
